

EASTER GIANT ART ATTACK CHALLENGE

Over Easter we want you to get creative. We want you to do a GIANT Art Attack!

Art Attack is an old art TV programme where the host and artist Neil Buchanan sometimes did giant pieces of art out of all sorts of things. You can click here to watch him create a tiger:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MzcZVXWRmZE>

We sometimes do this sort of art in some of our classes and call it placing and arranging. You can do it on a large scale or smaller scale using anything from around your home.

Your challenge is to create an Easter themed piece of art. You could do an egg, bunny, chick, cross or anything else you can think of that you can think of when we say the word Easter.

The great thing about this kind of art is that it can be moved and changed once you have taken a photo! No need for glue/ paint/ pens!!!

See the ones Mrs Knowles and her family had a go at below:

Made from grey towels, a white flannel, fluffy slippers, pink and grey socks and grey pumps. The details on the face made from a deodorant lid, socks and cotton buds!

A smaller chick- made on a table using a phone charger wire, pasta, rice, some playdough and beads!

An outline of rope (you could use scarves, tights, pencils etc) Decorating the egg are cuddly toys, toilet rolls, felt tip pens, books, plastic knives and forks, socks, crisps and lego!

Your Turn!

Now have a go-We will be choosing a number of winners who will receive a prize.

Please send photos- that you are happy to have shared on the school website to:
